Living in harmony with nature

Conscious enjoyment of nature, harmoniously embedding the architecture into its direct environment – these ideas we try to realize while constructing and building DAVINCI HOUSES.

Timber skeleton constructions and filigree framework structure make it possible. We've abandoned all carrying and separating walls, the deep glass facade elements create an attractive visual relationship between the surrounding nature and your living space; seamless transitions overcome the boundaries between the interior and exterior. The changing moods of the day and seasons become a rich experience, every day. Natural raw material of timber highlights this feeling of unity with nature.
