Topic „Winter Garden“

In our philosophy we place great importance to the winter garden idea. Wood and glass, light and transparency. An ideal interaction of interior and exterior as well as passive solar use are essential criteria for living space, where people and plants would be at ease. A supplementary building of the winter garden is of no special use for DAVINCI HOUSE as the winter garden ambience is felt in the whole house. In the conventional architecture such options as spatial placement according to the cardinal points (south – high sun protection and ventilation costs), adaptation to living processes (no special space but adjustment to the daily living experience), integration in the whole building body (not as adjoining construction or annex) and choice of the right building materials also make sense. A winter garden intensifies the quality of life by giving you the possibility to get in touch with nature.
